Reclaiming the Mind

Patroness: Turid de Maré

De Maré's Median Group is a development of the Foulkes' mall group, and begins where Foulkes stopped. Attention moves increasingly from the intrapsychic to the social, or rather to a greater correlation between the intrapsychic and the social. It is small enough to allow people to express themselves and to promote individuation. It is a transitional space for getting out of the kinship (the narcissistic family), and getting into the kithship (the citizenship-society).

The essence of the Median Group® is the free floating dialogue. It allows the overcoming of the individual narcissistic barriers towards the outside world. The primary mutual hatred engendered by the larger setting is gradually transformed, through dialogue, into fellowship, sharing, participation, communion, or Koinonia.
